

MIM[®] Parents' Training Workshop

What is it about?

The MIM Parents Workshop is specially designed and aimed at equipping parents to effectively assist their young children make the best out of their weekly music lessons. Understanding the philosophy behind Music for the Intelligent Mind (MIM) empowers you to unlock the full potential hidden in your child. We believe that music education should not be limited to mastering an instrument and collecting certificates. It is about becoming a complete musician. At Seimpi, we achieve this by providing solid foundation in eye training, speed reading and ear training, thus stimulating the child's brain in a holistic way during the early formative years.

What can you look forward to?

Parents looking for ways to motivate their children to practice on a daily basis will find our strategies especially helpful. In particular, the workshop will demonstrate Vygotsky's scaffolding by setting achievable targets, selecting attractive teaching aids, and establishing routine.

Topics also include fundamental theory knowledge, aural and musicianship, and keyboard techniques within the MIM syllabus (Pre Grade 1). At the end of the workshop, parents will have first hand experience learning to play a song on the piano.

Who is it for?

- Parents who have children who are in any of the MIM[®] program
- Parents who want to know what they can do to help their children

Who is the Trainer?

MS FIONA LIM

Miss Fiona Lim serves the school as a teacher for Music for the Intelligent Mind (MIM) courses. Fiona started giving private music tuition to individuals since she was in secondary school on a casual basis. Her students were mostly schoolmates who wanted to play popular tunes on the piano with simple accompaniment. Being able to play these songs by ear, she simplified these songs, making them teachable even to those who could not read any musical score. Throughout her secondary school and college days, Fiona played an integral role as a solo pianist. She provided live music at school functions ranging from musicals to celebratory concerts. As a college pianist, she represented her college choir in various competitions, such as the Singapore Youth Festival. By the time she graduated with her 'A' levels in 1998, she had earned her music qualifications from both ABRSM and Trinity College of Music. She pursued her Bachelor of Computing (with Merit) from NUS between 1999 and 2002, putting a hold on her music career temporarily. She even found time to be in competitive ballroom dancing. Having earned the degree she worked as a Web Developer from the point she graduated till 2003, when she decided to go back to music education. Fiona started giving private coaching to individuals and gradually specialized in music pedagogy. In 2004 she started her work with groups of children (two and half years onwards) at several childcare centres. Since then, she acquired a Certificate in Pre-school Teaching (CPT) from Learning Capital in 2005. She became a licensed MIM teacher in the year of 2006. She specializes in developing interesting music curriculum, integrating musicianship skills, music mapping and keyboard training. She has been a popular MIM teacher in both childcare centers and kindergartens.
